ABOUT A FAR-REACHING DEPARTMENT. AND ONE OF ITS NOTABLE EXPERTS

'MAN OF THE PEN' SUCCEEDS IN SECURING AN INFORMATIVE CHAT WITH BRIGADIER TUDGE—INSPECTOR OF EMIGRATION ACTIVITIES

Talk with Brigadier Tudge, as Man of the Pen did on a recent evening, is to talk with one who is expert in all matters pertaining to Emigration. Long, intimate and practical contact with its simplicities as well as its complexities, has given him a firm grasp of its inner meaning and outer value, and when it is known that he is associated with any specific undertaking, it may be definitely realised that it will be hall-marked with efficiency and despatch.

It is twenty years since the Brigadier first became attached to this ever broadening branch of Salvation Army effort. Emigration was then more or less in the experimental stage, so far as The Army was concerned, and it would appear that, as a distinct issue, it was born in the desire to further aid men who made good on our Land Colony in England. It was easy enough to book passages and ship men to Canada, but the questions of wise distribution and of "after care"—always matters of grave concern to The Salvation Army—called for more serious thought and wide-ranged service. Hence the creation of a minor department, attached to the then Chief Secretary's Department at T.H.Q., and the appointment of the first Officer to be definitely associated with Salvation Army emigration work in Canada—and the Brigadier Tudge of to-day was that man. He tells of the first party of Farm Colony emigrants handled. It was announced in the newspapers that a number of men were being brought to Canada by The Salvation Army and that farm work was required for them. This publicity brought stacks of letters from farmers all over the country. It also brought a crowd of farmers to T.H.Q., and they were on the job when the men came. Under the circumstances not only were the farmers able to pick out the men they fancied, but the men were able to do likewise.

It has fallen to the lot of the Brigadier to be associated with many pioneer efforts in the Emigration line. For instance, he played an important part in the bringing over from England of The Salvation Army's first chartered Emigrant ship, the "S.S. Vaueuver." This took place in 1905; twelve hundred emigrants formed the party, and the journey across the Atlantic occupied fifteen days. Then the Brigadier was the first to sell rail tickets on an ocean boat. This started the system which is now operative on all passenger ships. In 1907 he was appointed to Winnipeg, and during the first period of his stay of twelve years, was responsible for Emigration affairs in the Prairie Provinces. When the Canada West Territory was formed, his scope of service became more embracing, and in addition to his emigration duties, he, at various times, attended to a number of other important phases; to wit, the Subscribers, Trade, Publicity and Candidates' Departments, and was 'The War Cry's' Western Correspondent for a considerable period, in busy addition.

In 1917, the Brigadier, in the interests of after war emigration, visited Australia and New Zealand. He was absent from home for eleven months, and the value of his investigation and subsequent suggestions may be gathered from the success which is now marking the transportation of such large companies of people from the Old Land to the Lands under the Southern Cross.

It will be seen from the foregoing how closely allied the Brigadier is to Salvation Army emigration service. He knows Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and knows a good deal of the vast Territory south of the border. He has crossed the Atlantic a great many times, is intimately acquainted with Canada's Rail authorities, and, in some instances, to think of Salvation Army transportation is to think of Brigadier Tudge.

The Brigadier is a great champion of the Salvation Army's Emigration Scheme, and states that as a result of experience, our machinery has been brought within sight of perfection. Today a party of a hundred emigrants is handled with less flurry, and greater success, than was the case with eighteen or nineteen ten or fifteen years ago. It is worthy of note that The Salvation Army has become the largest emigration agency in the world outside of Governmental bodies, and is the largest operating in Canada. "No organisation can offer such continuity of effort as we do," said the Brigadier with considerable pride.

But it must be stated that the Brigadier doesn't let enthusiasm for emigration run away with his judgment. He is insistent on such meaningful words as "selected" and "directed" being associated with emigration. He has tremendous faith in Canada's ability to absorb surplus populations, and is not distressed by the present condition of pessimism which exists in some circles. He is conscious of lack of boom, but referring to this, he stated in that quiet, impressive way of his, "We don't want booms with no sound basis.

What we want is steady, solid foundational growth! Emigration to be a success must be steady, not fluctuating. Sporadic emigration is some times consequent upon recognised depression in the Old Land and imagined easy success here; it is also due to certain points being over-advertised, and the resultant disappointment to those who strike them, and their bowalling is like a stone thrown into a pond, the ripples break ultimately on the far shore.

In December, 1919, Brigadier Tudge was appointed Acting Resident Secretary for Canada, with Headquarters at Montreal. At that time the Department had a staff of four. Then development set in, and when he handed over this position of Resident Secretary to Colonel Charles Taylor, the Department comprised 37 Officers and employees. Two Lodges operated in 1919, now there are six, in addition to the New Corners' Inn, which functions with such acceptance in Toronto. During the past year, it was elicited in the course of the conversation in which the former information was gleaned, that our Salvation Army Emigration Staff in Canada looked after 5,740 people, 1,842 of that number being women; 301 were youths placed on farms, and 327 were orphan children.

In the Lodges 17,158 free meals and 5,507 free beds were supplied; 1,897 applications for domestics were filled; 2,324 hours were spent in the visitation of women placed in positions as domestic servants; 11,196 interviews were held; 53,651 telephone calls were answered; 14,651 letters were written; 750 trains were met; 4,296 passengers were assisted, and 5,236 emigrants attended social evenings arranged for their benefit.

Sixty-two personally conducted parties were looked after, nine of that number served with 2,902 meals, being through-rails to the coast. Forty-nine "Ontario parties," totaling 2,277 souls, were served with 8,717 lunch boxes on the trains, in addition to approximately a thousand gallons of tea and two hundred and fifty pounds of biscuits. But figures weary one. At the same time those quoted here will give some idea of the great amount of work involved after emigrants are landed in Canada by The Salvation Army!

Now the outstanding personality of this sketch is designated "Inspector of Emigration Activities." That he will be equally as successful in his new sphere as he has been in the old is certain and that the Department will increase in its usefulness and extend its borders is certain, for the foundation has been well and truly laid.

TEMPLE HOLINESS MEETING Conducted by our TERRITORIAL LEADERS

DEELY impressive, but not without a sparkling period, was the weekly Holiness Meeting conducted at the Temple by the Commissioner and Mrs. Sowton, on Friday evening. The body of the Hall was comfortably full, and the audience followed with keen attention our Leader's outlining of the way of Holiness. He took as the basis of his address a familiar passage, but treated it in an arresting manner, illuminating his points with many bright illustrations.

The time devoted to testimonies was well spent. There was an inevitable rush to grip the opportunity of witnessing, and at times five and six comrades were standing in readiness to record a healthy spiritual experience. Vivid, decisive and confidently tendered was the evidence thus forthcoming to the possibility of the Blessing of Full Salvation being not only attainable, but desirable, and as one of the comrades stated "keep able."

Our Leaders were supported by the Field Secretary and Lieut.-Colonel Adhy. Then, of course, Lieut.-Colonel Bettridge and the Cadets were present, and contributed considerably to the glow and helpful character of the gathering.

MANY Corps in the Stratford Division are notable for hav-some of its leading Staff Officers.

CLINTON—It was as a Soldier of this Corps that Brigadier Moore started his Army career. Sergeant-Major Cook is a real "landmark" and can tell tales of The Army's struggles forty years ago. Captain Clarke and Lieutenant Stevenson are the Officers in command. A Troop of Life-Saving Souls have been saved. Interest has been aroused and both Officers and Comrades have been greatly encouraged and inspired.

MOUNT FOREST—Captain and Mrs. Howers are leading on at Mount Forest. Three new Corps Cadets have

This Corps, although only recently opened, has sent two Candidates in the Training Garrison and one is now

OWEN SOUND—This Corps is noted for its memorable victories and achievements for God and The Army during the past forty years. It pos-

Songster Brigade, and a thriving Y.
P. Corps. Recently the Young Peo-

Sergeant-Major Jobson has assumed the responsibility of Y.P.L. Leader.
There is also a splendid Corps Cadet Brigade with Higher Grade Corps Cadets. One Candidate now in Trainare more to follow. Commandant and Mrs. Cuvender are leading on and are winning stirring victories.

PALMERSTON—This is a noted

It is the battle-ground of many a notable victory for God and The Army,

RESULTS of the fruitful soul-saving Campaign, conducted by Lieut. Colonel Bettridge and the Cadets at Yorkville are still in evidence, and are manifested in the bright and encouraging testimonies given from time to time by those who received Salvation, Sanctification, or Restoration during those days of Divine visitation.

What wonderful privileges and opportunities afforded in the knock-outhouse visitation engaged in by the Cadets on Wednesday afternoon! Incidents of unusual interest and blessing occurred last week.
For instance: Two Cadets arrived at one of the Municipal Grèches for Children and were granted admittance. On explaining the purpose of their visit, an eager request was made that a service be conducted with the children, of whom there were about thirty of primary age in attendance. An interesting service ensued and after prayer the Cadets left with words of hearty appreciation ringing in their ears and rejoicing in their hearts that such a chance had come to them to be of blessing to the children.

In another house a Brigade Officer and Cadet entered and seven people gathered together in the room and a service was no sooner suggested than it was in progress. While the visitors spoke of the duty and privilege of "Holy Living," great blessing came upon the people. A short season of prayer followed.

It is true that the people who came to the door in answer to the knock of Adjutant Ham and Cadet Zarfaz were obviously foreigners, and upon approaching them with an explanation of the visit they were hardly understood. When an offer of prayer was made, however, the people exclaimed that they had no money to pay for prayers, they would gladly do so. What else could be expected but that prayer was gladly and earnestly offered that some real and definite blessing might come to these simple-hearted people. As they rose from their knees, an Ukrainian woman came forward in true European fashion and bending low, kissed the Adjutant's hand as a token of gratitude for what had been done.

Discouraged! Well, perhaps somewhat, after receiving no response from several doors and refusals at others. The two Cadets concerned, however, at length came to a house and while waiting for an answer heard a call from the cellar window and there beheld a man who had just been employed in chopping wood.
An interesting talk ensued for a moment or two, and, having received no invitation to enter the house, the Cadets offered to kneel at the cellar window and pray before they left. The man consented to let them come in, and after Scripture reading and prayer, the man, who was confined to the house with severe rheumatism, expressed his heart-felt gratitude for the blessing brought to him when he was unable to go to the House of God for such refreshment.

The many-sided work and duty of The Salvation Army Officer brings him into contact with all sorts and classes of people, and this fact is soon discovered by the Cadets in the practical training given them. For instance, during his regular "War Cry" Booming, a Cadet came across infidels and seeples who at first refused to either buy the "War Cry" or have any conversation with him, unless it was argument against religion and The Army.
After dropping a tactful word or two from week to week, the Cadet is beginning to see the fruit of continued effort, prayer and desire in the changed attitude of the people, and the purchase of "The War Cry."

Women Cadets rejoiced over definite results from their visitation last Wednesday afternoon. At both Earlscourt and Bedford Park a "soul sought Salvation during Cadets' visitation," and at Bedford Park two babies were also secured for the Gracie Roll.

The North Toronto Brigade rejoiced over two victories to the Mercy Seat at the close of their Wednesday night Meeting. A convert, won through visitation in North Toronto a few weeks ago, was again visited, and states she is keeping well saved.

An old lady in the Earlscourt district had been hall-keepers for the Rev. Wm Booth, in pre-Salvation Army days.

"THE FLAG THAT GUIDES POOR SINNERS ON THE WAY"

UNDER ONE FLAG

THE LATE MRS. COMMISSIONER DE GROOT TRIBUTE FROM AN OLD COMRADE

BY COMMISSIONER W. ELWIN OLIPHANT

HOLLAND has given and The Salvation Army has trained many remarkable women for service in that country and in Missionary lands. Among these noble daughters Mrs. de Groot, in qualities of character, of devotion, and of saintly courage, holds a high place.

Others have not, perhaps, been put to quite the same supreme tests of sacrifice and suffering as she. When that last test of a fatal illness was added she was found equal to the solemn ordeal and, keeping her faith, she passed triumphantly to her reward.

We little thought when, over thirty years ago, we guided her first faltering steps in Army warfare that she would rise to be such a Mother in Israel and such a fearless soul-winner and see service in the Far East as the wife of her Missionary Officer-husband, Commissioner de Groot. That tall, dark, frail girl had many things to hold her back from such hard but glorious service as The Army in those days offered. But "the Cross was the attraction" for her.

A much-loved mother—and she a widow—who hesitated to give her daughter for the busy-busy of Army life a refined home, a circle of choice friends, and happy prospects—all these were not strong enough to keep her back from the great surrender. She entered whole-heartedly into the fray.

Preparing for Larger Service

Her education, her knowledge of the Dutch world, and her quiet efficiency, brought her into prominence. She was soon chosen to be a Private Secretary at our Amsterdam Headquarters. Here, at the fountain-head of Army administration in that land, all her powers were used, and her position proved an excellent preparation for the time when later she was called to stand beside her husband and pass with him from Divisional Officer to Training Principal and later to service in Java and Japan.

As we contemplate these thirty years of service in Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, and the Far East, the question arises, could this gentle girl have done better than obey the Divine voice, forsake her own land, her father's house, and her own people, and follow where that voice should direct? Surely, "the end crowneth the work," and in that "end" we have the answer.

In her own circle she might have had much that was attractive and even legitimate to one of her disposition, but she esteemed the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures of The House, which was her particular Egypt. It was this heroic character that enabled her to "choose" such a career and real principle that gave her heart and courage to stick to her choice to the end.

And now she is gone! Her death is a loss to us all. To her husband and children—well, loss is loss, how ever much the glow of her beautiful life will linger for many years on their hearts.

Mrs. de Groot was a truly devoted woman of God, a never-failing strength to her husband, a cheerful example to her children, and she will be missed, as she was certainly loved, by thousands. Her chief characteristics always seemed to me to be quiet efficiency as a worker, gentleness of manner, unobtrusive comprehension of immediate circumstances, readiness to do small services, and above all, a heart at leisure from itself to soothe and sympathize with any one and every one in her neighborhood.

Her marriage was a happy one. She had just the sides that her husband lacked and he those that she lacked, and so they completed each other.

At the direction of the General, Lieut.-Commissioner Unsworth conducted the Funeral and Memorial Services at Borneo. Great congregations attended both gatherings in the William Booth Memorial Hall, hundreds of people being unable to gain admittance.

At the Funeral service the Dutch Embassy and Consulate were represented, together with many other leading people, and a deep impression was evidently made for God and The Army.

The Memorial Service was most impressive. Commissioner de Groot was wonderfully sustained as he spoke tenderly of his wife. In response to Commissioner Unsworth's appeal over fifty men and women surrendered.

PRISONERS AT PRAYER

THROUGH some misunderstanding a native Salvation Army Bandman recently found himself in a South African Jail Cell, and of what transpired there a paper reports in the following manner—

"The Coloured Prisoners' Cell at Caledon Square—a noisome place, at the best of times—is, on a Monday morning, usually occupied by some fifty drunks and disorderlies who have fallen into the hands of the police during the week-end.

"Anyone who is conversant with the habits and language of many of these prisoners, whose frequent appearances for the same offense is merely a matter of public record, may imagine the atmosphere of noisy truculence and turbulent offensiveness which the Officers in charge have to restrain pending the sitting

BREVITIES

A RECENT Divisional Campaign, held in Liverpool, resulted in nearly two hundred seekers. Mrs. Booth, the British Commissioner, conducted the final victorious week-end Meeting, with excellent results.

The opening of the new Corps at Western Townships, near Johannesburg, South Africa, was marked by twelve adults and a number of children seeking Salvation.

"Since our last report," writes Major Grimes, from Nigeria, West Africa, "we have enrolled thirteen Soldiers at Lagos and eleven at Ebutu Metta."

Among the results of the six months "Great Endeavour" Campaign in Southern India, the following are recorded: New non-Christian converts, 3,448; backsliders reclaimed, 1,847; new Soldiers enrolled, 1,748; new adherents enrolled, 1,416.

A prominent Wellington business man called at The Army's Headquarters in that city the other day, and handed in a donation of thirty pounds. He had been there for two years, before he had been "down at the heels," and had come to Headquarters seeking money for a meal and a bed. It had been freely given, so he desired to return it with interest.

A rich Nair has offered land for an Army building and for a colony at a newly-opened Corps in South India.

A Troop of Life-Saving Scouts has been started at La Villette, the Parisian Slum Corps.

Forty Candidates were accepted for the last New Zealand Training Session.

The Nigerian Headquarters has lately received requests from numerous towns, asking that Army operations be commenced in them.

Young People's Councils, recently conducted in Switzerland by Commissioner de Groot, were marked by unusual power and success.

The last Training Session commenced in the Eastern Territory of India, included six Cadets from a Criminal Tribe Settlement.

The Motor Ambulance attached to The Army's Eye Hospital at Amara, Western India, treats an average of eighty cases per day in remote villages.

A report from France states that The Army has been awarded the "Diploma d'honneur" at the Pasteur International Exhibition at Strasbourg.

Writing from Nairobi, the capital of Kenya, East Africa, Brigadier Peet says: "During the last three days we have had one hundred and forty souls, mostly new cases."

In a recent Meeting at Kottarakkall, India, one hundred and forty-three new Hindoo converts were enrolled under the Flag. Many of them had walked fourteen miles to attend the function. There were 1,500 Salvationists present for the occasion.

On one Sunday, says a report from Switzerland, the united Bands of Lausanne and Vevey visited no fewer than eighteen villages, playing, singing and speaking for Jesus. The whole country-side was stirred.

Lieut.-Colonel Souter, West Africa, has returned from a trip to the Gold Coast. It was the Colonel's first visit since he established the work there twelve months ago and he was greatly impressed by the advances made. A Chief and his wife were among the number enrolled.

The proprietor of a hotel at Darlington, England, has placed a sign outside of his establishment which announces "The 'War Cry' taken here." This information is emphasized by a hand pointing downward to indicate that the paper can be read inside.

Commander Eva Booth recently conducted her first Meeting with Officers since her illness. Four hundred were present at the Memorial Hall, New York, and gave their leader a tremendous ovation.

Through the door, a remarkable scene inside the cell confronted the observer. He saw that the whole of the prisoners in the cell were on their knees with the Salvationist earnestly leading in prayer.

"It was astonishing and considering the surroundings, a wonderful instance of the power of music and worship on such an impressionable race, and one which has never before been witnessed in Caledon Square Police Court."

TORONTO WEST WEEKLY HOLINESS MEETING

Conducted by
LIEUT. COLONEL AND MRS. MOREHEN

THE Territorial Young People's Secretary, with Mrs. Morehen, piloted last Friday night's Holiness Meeting at Dovercourt. A revival of old-time congregational singing is commencing at these gatherings. A fitting theme—Love—was expressed in the initial song, and Adjutant McLean and Staff-Captain Best led to the Throne of Grace. Comrades were not slack to avail themselves of the chance to testify, but voluntarily and eagerly they rose until several were standing at once. One brother, telling of the help the Bible had been to him, and mentioning the efforts of modernists to write a new Bible, said that it was not necessary to re-write the Bible, but it was necessary to re-read it.

Deserving mention must be made of the Wychwood Songsters and Band who, although not strong numerically, sang and played with much sweetness.

Mrs. Morehen spoke and the Colonel delivered the main address, his remarks being in connection with the unbelief of Zacharias when Gabriel, the angel, foretold the birth of John the Baptist.

Envoys Alward and Burditt at Helm

HAMILTON III. (Adjutant and Mrs. Goodnow).—The WIN ONE Campaign has been a means of great blessing to the Comrades of this Corps. We had THIRTEEN seekers the first week. Another outcome of the Campaign is the introduction of Cottage Meetings. We are holding two each week, conducted by the Soldiers themselves. Proof of the great blessing arising from these Meetings is the new interest manifested, and the increased attendance at each Meeting. For February 25th and 26th we had with us Envoys Alward and Burditt. The addresses of both Envoys were appreciated very much. In the Sunday night Meeting, SIX people surrendered to God.

Local Officers Commissioned

GANANOQUE (Captain and Mrs. Hemmstedt).—On Saturday, February 24th and 25th, we had with us Staff-Captain and Mrs. Owen. Each Meeting was a means of great blessing. The sales by Mrs. Owen were one of the main features in making the Meetings a success. The Staff-Captain's addresses were pointed and heart-searching. On Sunday night the Local Officers for 1934 received their commissions.

Salvation For the Family

HAMILTON II. (Captain and Mrs. Squarebriggs).—On Sunday afternoon nine Soldiers were enrolled under the Plan by Captain Squarebriggs. One of them had knelt at the drum-head in the Open- air. At night ELEVEN penitents sought Salvation, in one instance a father, mother and son being at the Mercy Seat together.

CHATHAM (Adjutant and Mrs. Woolcott).—The Young People's Legion is increasing weekly. The Comrades look forward with keen anticipation for Monday evening. The Y.P. Band and Brigade of Demonstrators, under the direction of Brother H. Roland, are a boon to the Corps. A suggestion box has recently been placed at the disposal of the young people, and is proving a helpful adjunct.

Ensign and Mrs. Keith at Helm

RIVERDALE (Commandant and Mrs. Osbourne).—A profitable time was spent last Sunday at Riverdale Corps, when Ensign and Mrs. Keith participated in the Holiness Meeting there were some heart- rending testimonies, and the Ensign's address touched upon the profit derived from living a life of Holiness.

The afternoon Meeting was a bright, happy affair, and doubly interesting in view of the fact that the Local Officers for 1934 were at Riverdale Corps, when the presentation of the commissions by Commandant Osbourne, were selections by the Songsters and Band. Representatives of the various Corps departments spoke; Guard Leader Bloss on behalf of the Young People; Ensign and Leader Barton for the Songsters; and Bandmaster Wood for the Band.

Mrs. Keith gave a short address at night, and the Ensign gave some straight and helpful advice as to how the un- converted could be saved.

The Commissioner has something to say about the Win One Campaign 'It is going very well'

"IT IS GOING VERY WELL!" That was the gladdening statement made by the Commissioner to Man of the Pen who sought his opinion concerning the WIN ONE Campaign. It was made with such fine confidence; too, that it communicated a thrill.

Continuing, he said: "We were greatly encouraged by the success of last year's Special Effort, the influence of which persisted, with blessing, throughout subsequent months; so that there is no shadow of reflection, but rather deep cause for gratitude in the statement that this year's Campaign is not only going as well as its predecessor, but better!

"A very gratifying feature," volunteered our Leader, "is the wide-flung sweep of what may justly be termed THE AWAKENING WAVE. It isn't a case of touching 'only here and there.' With but few exceptions, every Corps in the Territory has already reaped some benefit. This fact alone indicates the hearty co-operation which has been forthcoming; the high quality of faith entertained for the Effort, and the efficient, God-blessed work associated with fervent prayer. True, there are a few Corps which have not entered into the Campaign as enthusiastically as I should have liked, but judged on a broad basis anticipations have been realised!

"Already there have been some remarkable soul-saving achievements. One cannot, for instance, think of the truly inspiring records of many of our Corps without raising glad notes of praise to God. Think of Earlscourt's wonderful capture of over a hundred seekers since the Campaign's commencement; the continuity of the stream of penitents registered at Toronto Temple; the mighty outburst of revival fire at Lisgar Street and St. John, and what has been described as the 'Wonderful Ten Days,' conducted by Lieut.-Colonel Bettridge and the Cadets at Yorkville. Then how marked should be our praise to God for the glorious record of soul-saving victories published in the weekly reports. In very truth it may be stated that not only is there existent in our midst a deep spirit of expectancy, but there is evident a wonderful demonstration of answer to prayer and Divine recognition of sanctified service.

"The welcome given to the Covenant Card has greatly delighted me, and evidence of its value has been forthcoming again and again. We have received many calls for 'more cards,' and some truly beautiful stories can be related concerning the sacred attention given to them. For instance, at the Watchnight Service the Soldiers of one Corps knelt and signed the Cards assigned them. God saw this act of devotional regard, and His Hand has been upon that Corps for Good.

"An impressive outcome of what may be termed the Campaign propaganda has been the powerful manner in which it has caused Soul-Saving to become what I term THE TOPIC of the Territory. There is a sense in which this is always so, but just now it is specifically and peculiarly the case! In this respect 'THE WAR CRY' has greatly aided. The purpose of the Campaign has been continuously and powerfully stressed, and its pages have not only expressed the hopes entertained but have chronicled glorious results achieved.

"That was a happy idea of Adjutant Ham's to introduce a 'Win One Button.' It has been highly encouraging to see the constancy with which it has been worn, not only by Soldiers of the Temple Corps, but by many who have succeeded in securing one. Soldiers travelling to their occupations by street car, have worn the distinctive badge, and in this manner have been potent reminders of the great responsibility resting upon the shoulders of all who profess association with the Kingdom of God.

Then news has reached me of 'out of the rut' methods being introduced at various places. In this respect Sarnia Corps would appear to be splendidly representative. Here, for instance, is an extract from a report:

"We are marching round different sections of the city every night with torches and flags. We are making good use of the megaphone, singing through it and shouting out verses of Scripture and announcements. The city has been canvassed and a blotter announcing the Campaign has been left at every house."

"I am greatly cheered by the manner in which Officers attached to T.H.Q. are into the fray. At the conclusion of busy and strenuous days and weeks, they engage in conflicts oft and fruitful.

"And now we are entering upon the final stage. Soon the Campaign will be over. Oh, may there be no one who will suffer regret on account of neglected opportunities. Now is the time to take stock. If, by chance, you have not been as zealous as you might have been, get busy and 'redeem the time!'

"We are now right on the verge of 'VISITATION WEEK.' I would like to see a revival of old-time house to house visitation, the getting into as many homes as possible for the purpose of dispensing cheer, the visitation of the sick, a demonstration of concern for the souls of the people. Such is expected of us!

"It must be confessed that in some instances this vital branch of our work has been sadly neglected. True, it requires tact and considerable zeal. In the larger Corps proper arrangements should be made for visiting Sergeants to assist the Officers. There is nothing like visitation for stirring up interest and getting new people to the Meetings. Note that this special visitation week begins on Sunday, March 2nd. Many Officers can doubtless arrange for selected Soldiers to make a special call on suitable people that day with a view to getting them to attend our Meetings. Why should not every comrade in every Corps try and bring at least one person who does not usually come?

"Next on the program comes 'HOLINESS WEEK.' Special Holiness Meetings should be held, not only on Sundays, but every night in the week, where this is possible. A special effort should be made to set before the people the great blessing of Full Salvation. Deliverance from sin should be declared as a definite step—beyond an experience of simple Justification.

"Very clear testimonies to the blessing of a clean heart should be given by those who enjoy it, and a persistent effort should be made to bring as many others as possible into this experience.

"Then the final week of the Campaign—'ENROLMENT WEEK.' You will know, Mr. Editor, that already 'The War Cry' has reported the registration of well over a thousand seekers, and there have been a great many more unrecorded. Now, naturally, we are hopeful that many Soldiers will be added to our Rosters. While our aim is to win souls, we are not blind to the desirability of Soldier-making, and it is expected that during the Campaign special efforts will be made to bring all converts and recruits into line for enrolment. May I suggest that it would add considerably to the interest of these Enrolment Services if the 'Soul-Winners' were to take part in the form of testimonies. What joy there will be in the Corps where twenty, ten, or even fewer comrades are 'sworn-in' as a direct result of the Campaign!"

The General

Leaves international Headquarters for Campaign in Australasia

THE General left London on February 7th for Australia. According to programme he will call at Colombo, Ceylon, and arriving in Australia on March 4th, will visit in turn the cities of Perth, Adelaide, Melbourne, Brisbane, and Sydney. Crossing to New Zealand, he will journey to Dunedin, Christchurch, Wellington, and Auckland, and return by way of Honolulu and the United States.

The General will be accompanied by Commissioner Mapp, International Secretary, Ensign Wycliffe Booth, A.D.C., Major J. Evan Smith, Private Secretary, and Staff-Captain Hawkins, who will represent 'The War Cry'.

The General's previous Campaign in the Southern Continent, which was part of his first world tour, was undertaken four years ago, and was a great success.

During that visit he decided upon the reorganization of the Command, then under Commissioner and Mrs. Hay, into two Territories, called Southern and Eastern respectively. On his forthcoming campaign he will have opportunities of seeing some of the advantageous fruits of that venture. Doubtless, too, the General will be able to sanction further developments of work which Commissioner Richards, of the Southern Territory, and Commissioner Whatmore of the Eastern Territory, will be in a position to lay before him. The success which continues to mark The Army's work in New Zealand, under Commissioner and Mrs. Hoggard, will, no doubt, receive a fresh impulse from the General's presence.

Britain's Premier

and what he thinks of The Salvation Army :

"I CONFESS that I know of no agency doing so much in so many fields for the moral and spiritual good of humanity as The Salvation Army. I am a pretty widely travelled person, I think, but I have never yet been to a place where The Salvation Army is not to be found. I have, too, a good many irons in the fire, but there is not a single iron of which I do not find The Salvation Army has hold of one end!"

"We talk about the unemployed question; The Salvation Army Officer comes and gives us valuable information. We talk about barnaisds; and a letter comes from Headquarters telling us of something that has been done. We talk about the children; at the present moment, in the House of Commons, I am sitting on a committee that is dealing with the Children's Bill, and when we get into any difficulty and want any particulars, away down below the bar sits two representatives of The Salvation Army, and they are prepared to get us out of our difficulty—in fact, out of all our difficulties!"

"Then we talk about the regulation of the drink traffic, and ask who is to do it, or what agency is to do it; and we say, 'Try Colonel So-and-So, or Major So-and-So, of The Salvation Army.' When friends of mine ask me to trace out the lost, and men, who have become too disgraced to make themselves known at home, I go to my friend Colonel (now Commissioner) Lamb, and give him the case, and in due course The Army puts me in touch. I am bound to say this, that however large the errors of The Salvation Army may be made to appear to the most critical, the work they are doing blots all those errors out. Whatever agency comes or goes, the country cannot spare one agency—and that is The Salvation Army."

The Chief of the Staff

Campaigns in Rome

IN connection with his Italian Campaign the Chief of the Staff conducted impressive Meetings in Rome. A large and influential audience gathered in a beautiful Church, filling every seat, including also the high and lofty gallery, running right round the building almost up to the ceiling. In fact, many were satisfied with standing right through the Meeting. Veterans sitting declared that this was the greatest Meeting The Army had ever had in the Eternal City.

The Chief had not been talking for five minutes before all were demonstrating their pleasure, and their attention followed every word. Hundreds heard, for the first time, why this wonderful Salvation Army is, and what it is doing in every part of the world. Astonishment and appreciation were expressed alternately on several features, and the recounting of some special examples of loving service and soul-winning opened up the wells of emotion.

But the Chief saw to it that not only The Army's activities but the claims of God were brought home. The influences of this gathering will be felt in many parts of the country.

IN a letter to the Commissioner, the General has passed on the gratifying intelligence that Colonel McMillan is greatly improved in health.

Oshawa, East Toronto and Cobourg Corps are creating "building funds" with the idea of accumulating money for the development of property schemes.

It will be seen from "Coming Events" that the Chief Secretary is to visit a number of Corps in the eastern fringe of the Territory.

The Editor has received several communications couched in warm terms concerning the introduction of "The Poor Man's Lawyer" feature.

Last week we published the glad news of an increase of six hundred and sixty-six copies. This week we register a further move forward of two hundred and eighty. Look out for Sir Q's Notes next week. There will be some talk consequent upon his remarks.

Captain and Mrs. Rowland, Parry Sound, welcomed a baby boy to their home on February 4th.

Major Easton, of the Field Department, on Monday narrowly escaped serious injury, when a portion of the ceiling of the office in which she works fell upon her.

Colonel Otway conducted the week-end services at St. Thomas. He is also conducting an inspection at the London Industrial and Chatham Hostel during the week, and will finish his tour by conducting a Meeting at Ridgeway.

Staff-Captain McElhinney last week addressed the men of the Social Hygiene Council, at St. Charles Hotel, Toronto.

Commandant Adams, Women's Social Department, T.H.Q., is recovering from her recent accident, which resulted in a broken wrist.

Commandant Sharp, of the London Young Women's Boarding Home, has been very ill, but is now recovering.

Captain Hawkins has transferred his quarters from Norland to Haliburton. The Corps will now be known as Haliburton Corps.

Windsor 1 Corps hosts of two Outposts, namely: Bridge Avenue and Tecumseh. On a recent Sunday 353 people attended the Meeting of the first meeting conducted by the men, who were present at the Company Meeting. On the same Sunday 45 young people attended at Tecumseh.

Lieutenant A. Bunton has been appointed to the command of Wingham Corps; Lieutenant MacGillivray to Bowmanville, and Lieutenant Clarke to Port Hope.

Commandant B. Goy and Mrs. Commandant Bruce, have been admitted to the Long Service Order.

Ensign and Mrs. White have been appointed to Campbellton, and Captain and Mrs. Miller, late of Moncton N.L., to Westville.

The Field Secretary, Lieut. Colonel Miller, has been invited to represent The Army in connection with the Upper Canada Bible Society.

Adjutant Bunton reports that the prison work around Windsor is making splendid development. In addition to Dr. Savage, Prison Sergeant, conducting weekly meetings among the men, arrangements have been made for a Meeting with the women prisoners. Recently, in a Meeting, conducted by Adjutant and Mrs. Bunton, five men professed conversion; one of them was held on a murder charge, which was afterwards reduced to manslaughter, for which he is to serve fifteen years in the Penitentiary.

Staff-Captain White, of the Toronto Industrial Department, has arranged for many men wanting clothing to do some work in connection with the Waste Paper Department.

A Thousand Youthful Salvationists SPEND DAY WITH OUR LEADERS

Central Technical School, Toronto, The Scene of Three Gatherings Stupendous in Significance, Powerful in Appeal and Gracious in Spirit, resulting in One Hundred and Fifty-four Seekers at the Mercy Seat

FROM the four corners of the city of Toronto and adjacent country they came. Who? Hundreds of young folk, between the ages of thirteen and twenty-five, eagerly anticipating a day of days. The Central Technical School was the meeting-place, and in the grayness of the wintry light, that massive edifice wore a sombre aspect. Within, however, a brighter hue was evident, for there one saw the happy countenances of hundreds of youths and maidens and heard their bright, optimistic chatter. Youth itself is a tonic, and as one intermingled with this buoyant crowd, the exhilarating spirit was contagious. Young folk readily adapt themselves to new conditions, and so this college of learning was as conducive to worship as though it were a huge Citadel. To the triple inscription upon the School Coats of Arms—"Industry—Intelligence—Integrity"—which meets the eye as one looks at the imposing structure, might fittingly be added—"Inspiration."

The appearance of our Leaders was the signal for a storm of hand-clapping, only hushed as the Chief Secretary lined out the first song. The soul was thrilled as the assemblage raised their voices in rich melody, and an additional throb was experienced as the plea for "Showers of blessing" was lifted up in prayer. Surely no grander request could have formed the prelude to the three wonderful Sessions.

"May all present take as the question of this day, 'How can I profit by the counsel given?'" prayed Lieut.-Colonel Perry. Fervent indeed were the responses evoked as both he and Mrs. Brigadier Moore petitioned the Throne of Grace.

Lieut.-Colonel Morehen, Territorial Young People's Secretary, introduced the Commissioner and on behalf of all present thanked him for convening the Councils. He opined encouragingly that "this day would surpass all previously held."

Amid an atmosphere of tense expectancy the Commissioner launched into the initial stages of his counsellings. He was, he stated, very pleased with the spirit exhibited, and was inspired by fragrant memories of similar "Days" that he had spent since taking command of the Territory. It was, he further averred, gratifying to note the remarkably increased interest and attendance as compared with like gatherings held sixteen years ago when he was the Chief Secretary. Then it was considered no mean achievement to gather three hundred young people together.

The topics treated during the two previous Y.P. Days were commented upon and the topic for this day was divulged, namely "God's standard of Duty."

"A standard," our Leader pointed out, "is something to look up to. God will not lower His standard for us. We must raise ours to His."

The reading of Jeremiah's call to perform an almost superhuman task, and His reply to God that he was "but a child," was peculiarly applicable to those who listened, but it was shown that God has a plan for every life and that no standard which He presents to us is unreachable. Whatever our lack may be He is able to supply all our needs. He can grant us the ability to perform the hardest task.

The attention given was very marked, and our Leader's practical, solid and logical counsel found a ready acceptance in fruitful ground. It was made very plain that our duty to God is to love Him, to follow Him, to serve Him, to obey Him, to worship Him, to witness for Him, to consider His interests, to learn to know His will, to become fellow-workers with Him.

Lieut.-Colonel Miller lined out a song, and a volume of sound, richly choral and tuneful, made the spacious auditorium ring.

The third phase of the Commissioner's counsel embraced our Duty to our Parents. We were exhorted to respect, care for, help, and to appreciate them; to recognize their authority, to cheer and be a credit to them!

The morning session closed with the singing of a powerfully expressive song of surrender. How the young folks sang it! What a hallowed influence permeated those last precious moments!

Lunch was provided in the building, and the catering arrangements were under the supervision of Staff-Captain and Mrs. Cameron and Staff-Captain and Mrs. Best, who were assisted by twenty Cadets. Arrangements were well in hand and there was little confusion or fuss. The young men courteously gave way to the young women for the first sittings and all apparently enjoyed the provision made for them. The enormity of this task is clearly seen by the fact that one thousand, four hundred and ten meals were prepared.

Captain and Mrs. Falle, with their willing assistants, not only deserved but received words of approbation for the capable manner in which they catered for the Officers at Lippincott Street.

A season of chorus singing, led by Lieut.-Colonel Morehen, assisted by Adjutant Beer, prefaced the afternoon event, which opened with a song of praise. Staff-Captain McElhinney prayed, and, following, a forest of hands were lifted. Heavenward, as very earnestly the young people sang, "Pour Thy Spirit." Then Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Bettridge petitioned that "this might be a day long to be remembered!"

For a short period the Commissioner proceeded with his topic of the morning, enlarging upon Duty to our employers and to Country. To the obvious pleasure of the crowd, he stated that he had arranged for two young people, representing the Toronto Divisions, to read papers on "Corps Cadetship." Corps Cadet Stanley G. Gennerly, of Lisgar Street Corps, read first. He had prepared an exceedingly interesting paper, treating in a straightforward manner the difference between his present position as a Corps Cadet, with all that it entailed, and what might have been had he aspired to mere worldly fame. With logical argument he proved conclusively that the scales tipped in his favor.

Corps Cadet Mildred Moore, of Todmorden, read a charming paper, in which she mentioned her unwillingness to become a Corps Cadet, and how she had a wonderful dream, in which the command, "This is the way, walk ye in it," appeared as written upon a scroll. She had walked in that way and was able to recount how marvellously opportunities had been presented to her to perform practical service.

A paper was next read by Ensign DeBevoise, of the Editorial Department, which dealt with "The Value of Good Companions." From many angles the Ensign dealt with his theme and struck at evils which are all too common among the young, consequent upon evil comradeships.

Another item on the afternoon program was the first appearance of the Editor at a Canada East Young People's Day. He was warmly greeted, and his talk was especially applicable to the occasion. His effort brought this Second Session to a close.

The concluding session of the Councils bore with it many outstanding features, and not among the least was the record attendance of well over a thousand keen young people, who packed the "Tech" auditorium to capacity. Thus the 1924 figure breaks all previous records in the history of Toronto Y. P. Days. It was indeed an impressive sight to look upon that vast assemblage of vivacious young folk. Certainly it was a mighty witnessing to the influence of The Army as well as to the instinctive religious yearning of boys and girls; for they had united for no other purpose than that of spiritual education. Or, as the Chief Secretary remarked during his address, here indeed was a "Character Factory," where the hearts of many a lad and lass would be moulded into Divine Image. Then, too, the envioning appointments and High School "local color" in no mean way contributed toward the happy success of the entire day's program.

From the very inception of the night Council, one sensed a foreknowledge of decisions that would make for destiny in many lives. Some few took their seats with a giddy stubbornness, quite pre-determined not to surrender. Others entered the service with a spirit of finality and resolve—they would make it a night of right choices. The opening song was lifted in racy, but sincere style. Brigadier Walton and Mrs. Colonel Powley then led the throng up the steps of prayer and a sense of hushed devotion possessed the gathering. The "atmosphere" was created.

BANDMASTER SAUNDERS NORTH BAY

AMONG the Local Officers to be found throughout the Dominion, our Bandmasters hold a peculiarly dominant place. Through their spirituality, ability and loyalty they have become leaders of Bands of men whose primary consideration is the proclamation of the Gospel and the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ through the ministry of music.

Of these worthy celebrities we desire this week to bring to the fore Bandmaster L. H. Saunders, of North Bay, who was cradled in the Army, his parents being Soldiers of many years' standing.

Among the admirable qualities possessed by our Comrade, that of determination to succeed asserted itself when, as a boy, young Saunders commenced his career with the T. & N. O. Railway. From one post to another he has risen until at the present time he holds the responsible position of chief clerk of his department.

While not claiming to possess an extensive theoretical knowledge of music, nor to perfectly understand the deeper branch of harmony, yet through studious application to this branch of art he has developed into a musician of no mean order.

A sanctified ambition is a perfectly honorable thing and is recognized by God as a right possession of all progressive Christians. There has been much, however, as will have been surmised from the foregoing, to dampen the ardor and check the ambition of our Comrade. The town in which the Corps, which he serves so well, is situated, has what may be termed something of a migratory population. North Bay is the "gateway to the North," and is therefore a kind of clearing centre. Consequently the Band has suffered depletion very often and this has naturally occasioned a very discouraging state of affairs, but the Bandmaster has risen above these conditions and has zealously endeavored to repair all losses.

An enterprising venture, of which the Bandmaster is justly proud, is the editing of a yearly booklet. This contains first hand information regarding the finances of the Corps and writings on spiritual topics.

When the call of King and Country came, at the outbreak of The Great Struggle, our Comrade shouldered his musket with many another Salvationist and "did his bit."

Be it said to his credit Bandmaster Saunders is a "Prayer Meeting stickler." He fishes, prays, believes, and rejoices in victory!

Bandmaster L. H. Saunders

LAWFUL, BUT NOT EXPEDIENT

By One Who Was "Overseas"

DWELLING in a far-off land, in the company of men who have not seen each other before—men whose habits, associations, and outlook are not our own—there arises in the heart a sense of acute loneliness, not easily described by word or pen. With many others, I shared this experience during the late war. Happily, however, it was brightened at times. There was the Oasis in the Desert, the chance meeting with Salvationist Service-comrades. How grand a thing it was to feel the strength of those bonds which bind us together in our great Salvation Army! We talked of home, of the battles to be fought when we returned, of the necessity for a constant guard upon our spiritual experiences, and the dangers and possibilities seemed to us to be very real.

In war there were many dangers to face. In peace they are still with us, more subtle than enemy strategy on the battle-field. Voices call us from the consecration we vowed in the days of war. The age savors not of God or things spiritual. There is manifested a kind of "after-the-war spirit" that we must guard against. It is difficult to diagnose it, but the symptoms are common; indifference, selfishness, unsettled mind, the so-called "broadened mind," which is seeking to impose its judgments upon us. On investigation one finds that this "broadened mind," correctly interpreted, means but a lowering of the standard of religious life to suit the spiritual condition of the soul. Let us beware of its deadly infection!

The Army Bandsman occupies a position unequalled for usefulness in the religious world. He is the herald of peace, the messenger of light, the emblem of gladness. Comrade, let nothing hinder your influence, but seek to maintain and further its beauty by a clean cut from the world and its spirit.

Men everywhere are seeking to possess two things that war against each other and never blend—evil pleasure and a good conscience, worldly life and service for God. There must be no compromise in our experience. We cannot serve God and mammon. It is necessary for us to recognise what things, whilst lawful, are not expedient to our Christian service. There are different ranges of interest in human life—recreations, pleasures, and so on, and we find consolation in the words: "Your Heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of these things," but our first consideration must be the Salvation of souls and the glory of God. Nothing good is excluded thereby, but everything must be subordinate.

It is not difficult to reach the position of those invited to the rich man's feast. Of the guests, one bought a field and could not come; another bought oxen, which demanded the whole of his attention; another married a wife and could not leave her. None of these were wrong things; their business interests and family zeal were commendable, only they were so taken up with lesser things that the most important were crowded out.

Many to-day are failures in the spiritual life because they take excessive interest in business or recreation. These are not altogether unworthy, but much less worthy things. They crowd in upon one's time until faith in God, prayer-life, and unselfishness become choked and die. Let us be known by our choice. Christ of Calvary, who gave His life for men because they were worth dying for, counted no sacrifice too great to save them. Nothing in this life is too precious to be surrendered for the Kingdom's sake. The life that loses itself in other lives has discovered the secret of great living, and great living means great dying, and great dying—a great and glorious future.

Bright Musical Week-end

WALKERVILLE (Adjutant Major Evans.) Walkerville had a very successful week-end, in the shape of a visit from Major Gordon, Adjutant and Mrs. Beer, and Ensign and Mrs. Ensign. We had a good start Saturday night, when a bright meeting of music and song was enjoyed.

The Holiness Meeting was full of spirit. The rendering of a solo entitled, "Love Divine," by Mrs. Robertson, was greatly appreciated, as was Adjutant Beer's address. Ensign Robertson held the attention of a good audience with his Salvation appeal.

The closing Meeting on Monday was a great success. A Musical Program was arranged by the Windsor and Walkerville Bands, the Adjutant and Ensign taking prominent parts. Five Salvation Army instruments were presented to Bandmen by His Worship, the Mayor.

Dovercourt Band Broadcasts From Temple

ON Tuesday, February 12th, Dovercourt Band gave a special program of music in the Toronto Temple. This was broadcasted by Radio Station CFCB, which is operated by the "Toronto Daily Star," and from expressions of appreciation, we infer that the program was very much appreciated by the public. The opening item was a routine march, entitled "Toronto," which must have certainly given the invisible audience a foretaste of the interesting items to follow.

A short address was given by Adjutant Galway. His talk, although concise, was most interesting, and is reproduced below. A euphonium solo by Bandman P. Colvine and a cornet solo by Bandman A. Gooch were rendered exceptionally well.

The closing item, a selection "Evening," was a very appropriate finish to the program and we are confident that some far-off listeners were blessed and helped, as well as entertained by the music.

WHAT ADJUTANT GALWAY

TOLD THOSE WHO "LISTENED IN" ON TUESDAY EVENING WHEN THE "TORONTO STAR" BROADCASTED A PROGRAM GIVEN BY DOVERCOURT BAND

NO doubt you have heard the music of Salvation Army Bands on the streets many times, and to-night you are listening to it on the radio. In the circumstances I thought it would be in keeping to state briefly some of the things The Army believes and feels. It seems to me that an organization that maintains Bands like the Dovercourt Citadel combination; that writes the music, manufactures the instruments and trains the men to play them, is worth knowing about.

First, and always, The Army is a religious organization; its music and other activities are parts of an organized warfare on the evils around us. The program to-night is rendered with a sincere hope that it will bring cheer and blessing as well as entertainment to those listening in.

The Army believes in what its Founder called the "salvability of the soul," or, as a more modern phrase has it, that "no man may be down, but he is never out." Its greatest glory is that it offers hope and redemption to those who have fallen the farthest.

The Army stands for temperance, all the way and all the time. Every member of the Organization is pledged to temperance in all things and total abstinence from strong drink. Neither the "wet" nor the "dry" in any community are left in doubt as to where The Army will be found on the great question of strong drink.

The Army stands absolutely neutral on all matters of party politics. Every effort is made to help men to be good citizens, and all Salvationists are urged to shoulder their responsibilities in the community in which they live, but the quibblings and bickerings of party politics have no place in The Army. On the other hand, it is a very common mistake to see men of directly opposite political views united on Army platforms for the advancement of a cause that is agreed is beneficial to all.

The Army is international in the broadest sense of the word. Born in the very heart of the British Empire, its operations have spread abroad, and to-day there are few countries that do not hear its drums and feel its influence. Its "Flag to the pole" regions, while its songs make melody in every clime.

WEEK-END CAMPAIGN CONDUCTED AT BAY ROBERTS

BY COLONEL AND MRS. CLOUD

THE week-end Meetings at Bay Roberts were conducted by Colonel and Mrs. Cloud, accompanied by the General Secretary. A splendid number assembled at the Holiness Meeting in spite of a snow storm that was raging. The Colonel's address was very inspiring. His lesson was taken from the "slaying of the lion in a pit on a snowy day." The Colonel finished his address by saying, "God wants individuals who will face snow storms for His sake."

This was the first real taste of Newfoundland winter weather that Colonel and Mrs. Cloud have experienced. In spite of its adverse character, however, the large Citadel was packed on the Sunday night with an expectant congregation. The singing and speaking of both Colonel and Mrs. Cloud were the means of bringing blessing to many hearts. The Colonel's address on the importance of seeking true satisfaction from the right source was very impressive, and several persons responded to his appeal for seekers.

A little of the old-time fire which characterizes Bay Roberts, was in evidence, and a number of the comrades had a Hallelujah Dance. Adjutant and Mrs. Gabe, the Corps Officers, are doing their utmost for a revival in every branch of the Senior and Y.P. Corps.

Bell Island Awakening

Adjutant Lodge, of Bell Island, reports a spiritual awakening. "Corps during the week TWENTY-TWO came forward for Salvation in the Senior Meeting, while the Junior converts numbered TWENTY-FIVE. The Scouts and Guards are also being organized."

At Winterton, God's Spirit has taken hold of the people during the week and FIVE splendid cases of conversion have taken place.

Five new Soldiers have taken their stand at Whitehorse under The Army Colors. Four of these comrades are applying for Officership.

Back to the Front

We are pleased to report that Captain and Mrs. Windsor, of Har- Bay, who have been under quarantine for influenza, are now to the front again. A special effort just concluded, brought in $7.50 which was to be sent to the Corps fund. The Y.P. Work is also on the upgrade and the Company attendance is increasing.

Sympathy is expressed for Captain Canine in the promotion to Glory of his mother. It is of great comfort to the "Captain to know that she died in the faith.

Sixteen for Holiness

Last week's Holiness Meeting was, as usual, inspiring and interesting. Colonel Cloud and Captain Martin Barter gave addresses. SIXTEEN came forward in the Mercy Seat.

With the Life-Savers

The Life-Saving Guards of the city were again treated with a visit from Colonel Cloud and Staff-Captain Pilley. This was a very interesting service, especially as the new Sub-Territorial Organiser, Staff-Captain Sabatini, attended in full uniform and spoke to the girls.

Very encouraging reports are being received from Har- Bay Harbor. In Sunday night TWO soldiers came to the Mercy Seat, and one man, on whose behalf prayer had been offered, got saved in his home after the Meeting had closed.

The Home League of Rocky Harbor recently held a Sale of Work and realized the sum of $22.77 for Corps purposes.

A deeply spiritual work is in progress at St. John's. On Sunday night TWENTY-SIX came forward for Salvation. On Sunday night ONE backslider returned.

Praying For a "Break"

The Officers and Comrades of Twillingate are full of expectation for a break in the enemy's ranks. For the purpose of being united in their faith for this particular onslaught, a week of special prayer has been held. As a result, Sunday ONE backslider returned to the faith.

"GIVE THE BOYS A CHANCE"

THE REMARKABLE LIFE STORY OF NEW-FOUNDLAND'S SUB-TERRITORIAL COMMANDER
CHAPTER 9.—OFFICERSHIP

ALL the time that Tom's own business was spreading, the little shop which his mother kept had also prospered, and the fond desire of her heart was that Tom might become a front-rank merchant. This did not appear to be at all unlikely, either, for the lad's business

No, you cannot afford to smile at Tom becoming convinced that he ought to be an Officer at such an early age. Years have passed since then, and his whole life has proved the reality of that Call. But he did not apply at once. You must remember he was the only son stay, and the thoughts of his future brightened many a sad and weary day. But one evening, as they sat together alone, the boy asked her whether she would let him become a Salvation Army Officer.

"Oh, Tom!" cried the poor mother in an agony: "one child is in Heaven, one has been taken by your father, and now is my cup of sorrow to be filled to the brim? Is my only boy to leave me for ever? No, no, Tom; no, I can't let you go!"

Yet every day Mrs. Cloud was forced to thank God for the way He was using her boy. Scarcely a week went by without his being called to do some special work for the Lord. Sunday after Sunday he spent at various "hard" Corps, and all round the East Riddup he was known and welcomed as the "Boy Preacher."

Another twelve months passed by. Tom was now seventeen, and once more he spoke to his mother on the subject of Officership.

This time she did not refuse, but begged that he would leave the matter over for a little longer. "Not yet, not yet, my boy!" she pleaded amid her tears.

Complete Surrender

But one Sunday morning, in the Holiness Meeting, Tom's Call came to him clearer than ever. How could he refuse? His mother's sorrow, and the pain of parting with her, came before him, and there is no doubt that the tempter painted the farewell scenes in the blackest shades; but the Holy Spirit's voice was distinct and numismatic, and Tom knew that to disobey could only mean spiritual backsliding.

The mother must be placed on the Altar; he dared not disobey that Voice.

"Mother," said Tom, as he came home, "I've promised God that if The Army will accept me, I will become an Officer; even, mother, if you cannot consent, I must still go; I must indeed. But, mother, I want you to let me go. You have so often told me that you placed me on God's Altar when but a baby. Surely, you will not recall that gift!"

Mrs. Cloud listened. "My boy, I'll go and pray about it," she said, and left the room. But a wonderful light shone on the worn face as she came back, and, drawing her son to her, kissed his forehead.

"Tom," she said, "I have been to that mountain and I have slain my Isaac. I have given you up to God, and He has told me that He will prosper you wherever you may go."

The lad at once applied for the Work. In response to the letter which he received, telling him that he was accepted, and asking him to enter Training on November 1st, he wrote the following post card to the Officer in charge of the Training Home:

7th October, 1884.

Dear Sir,—

All being well, I shall come in the Home on the 1st of November. I have given up work; and when I received your card, I was just going to Pattington to help on the work there for a few days. The people have responded grand to my Training Home Card, but believing far more, My life is to please God, and to try to seek and save the lost. I mean to press onward under every difficulty.

A Distinct Call

But God's plans for Tom Cloud were in a very different direction. Slowly, but surely, the road that opened before him pointed not to riches or business fame, but to a life of self-sacrifice and hardship. For Tom, as a boy of sixteen, had a distinct Call for Officership.

SAVOURY BEAN RECIPES

BEANS, like all dried foods, should be soaked for eight or ten hours in water before they are cooked, in order that they may take up the moisture they have lost. If they are cooked in the same water in which they are soaked, all the nutriment is retained.

The small white bean, commonly called the navy, is perhaps the most popular bean for the common baked or boiled bean dishes. Left-over beans may be slipped into menus in soups, croquettes, and croquettes. There is no more appetizing sandwich filling than baked beans moistened with cream and salad dressing.

BAKED BEANS

1 pint navy beans, 3 pints cold water, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons molasses, 1 tablespoon mustard, 1 tablespoon tomato sauce, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ pound salt pork, ½ teaspoon paprika. Add soda to the water, wash the beans and soak them for about thirty minutes or until they are tender, adding more water if necessary. Put the beans into a bean-jar; add the salt pork cut into small cubes, the onion, the molasses, the mustard and the paprika. Cover the jar and bake the beans slowly for several hours. Slow cooking develops the flavor. When the beans are almost done add the salt and tomato sauce.

BAKED BEAN LOAF

1 pint cold baked beans, 1 cup bread-crumbs, salt and pepper, 1 beaten egg, 1 tablespoon finely minced onion, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup. Combine the ingredients and shape into a loaf. Bake it for twenty-five minutes. Serve with strips of broiled bacon.

BAKED BEAN SOUP

2½ cups baked beans, 3 cups water, 1 slice onion, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1½ cups milk. Scald the milk and the onion. Melt the butter; add to this the flour, then the hot milk, and stir the mixture until it is smooth and thickened; add the bean pulp, and allow the mixture to come to the boiling point. Just before serving add the well-beaten yolk of an egg.

BAKED BEAN CROQUETTES

1 cup baked-bean pulp, salt and pepper, 1 teaspoon onion juice, ½ cup white sauce. Combine all ingredients and allow them to stand for two or three hours. Shape this mixture into croquettes. Roll them in bread-crumbs, beaten egg, and then in crumbs again and fry them in deep fat.

BEAN SANDWICHES

1 cup cold baked-bean pulp, 1 teaspoon finely minced onion, 1 tablespoon melted butter or cream, add enough salad dressing to make the mixture the consistency of paste and spread the mixture on thin slices of buttered bread.

No. 8:—THE WEALTH OF THE FATHER'S STOREHOUSE AT THE DISPOSAL OF HIS CHILDREN

MARGARET! After our chats during the last few weeks, never dare to say that you are poor again. Poor indeed! With wealth accumulating in the Heavenly bank; with an inheritance incorruptible and undecayed and that fadeeth not away, reserved in Heaven for you; with an unlimited number of blank cheques in your possession, given you by your Heavenly Father, that you may be able to draw upon His riches in order to meet the needs of the process. Across each cheque is written the words, "My God shall supply all your need."

Partners in a Great Task
"Only a mother knows how great is a mother's need. From the first moment when the little bundle of love is placed within her arms, the responyou will hear a voice, in the stillness, saying: "For we have not on high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities, but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. Let us therefore come boldly before the Throne of Grace that we may obtain mercy and find grace to help in the time of need." You will go back to toil and duty singing, "Grace there is my every debt to pay."

Blood to wash my every sin away.
Power to keep me sinless day by day,
In Christ, for me."

The Ministry of Suffering
"The day may come when life seems altogether clouded, when sickness and unemployment come, resources dwindle and disaster looms ahead. Oh, my

Your Baby

DURING teething-time baby's diet should be as simple as possible. Milk should be sterilized, that is, a jar containing it placed into water which is allowed to boil round it, for several hours, then covered and allowed to cool.

Broths, with rice boiled in them, beef-juice, now and then a soft-boiled egg, will make a suitable diet until the child is two years of age.

Exercise is another great essential, and should form part of the day in every child's life. All children, except the little ones, should walk at least an hour a day in the open air, providing they are strong children.

Inexperienced mothers and nurses make the mistake of letting children remain standing when their ankles are weak, believing it will strengthen them.

sibility of guiding the tiny feet safely along the path of life rests heavily upon her. How great a responsibility! None greater. Oh, my child! At that early moment you can present your cheque of need and, over the counter as it were, shall be handed the promise: "Cast thy burden upon the Lord and He shall sustain thee." You can reverently but confidently fling open the door of the "Holy of Holies" and cry, "Lord, the burden is great, but I cast it on Thee. We are partners in this great task. It is for Thee to reveal Thy will and mine to obey." You will hear Him answer, "I will not fail thee nor forsake thee."

Cash Your Cheque

"When the hustle and bustle of the day has worn your nerves: the baby is fretful; Johnny breaks a piece of your best china; Betty loses her change; the dinner burns, and you feel at the breaking point, give the children something to amuse them—lay the baby down if possible—then everything else—and take your cheque into that inner chamber and present it.

dear! My dear! In that day remember your cheque book. You will find, written across one cheque the words: "I have been young, and now am old; yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread." Your confidence will be restored, and rest assured that your Heavenly Father will not betray it.

"God does allow His children to pass through the waters and fires of affliction for they, like the 'Captain of our Salvation,' must be made perfect through suffering. He does promise, 'When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee, when thou walkest through the fire thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee.'"

"Remember, too, my child:

"There is no flock, however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there!

There is no fireside, howsoever defended,
But has one vacant chair!"

up my penny's worth of milk she gives me most days, if she would buy me paper instead. You know, sir, it can't last long. The parish doctor says a few months of cold weather will finish me off, and a drop of milk ain't much to give for my blessed Jesus. Are people happy as have lots to give Him, sir?"

The visitor sighed. "Ah, lad, you are a great deal happier in this wretched room, making sacrifices for Jesus, than thousands who profess to belong to Him, and who have time, talents, and money, and yield little or nothing to Him."

"They don't know Him, sir. Knowin' is 'lovin', and lovin' is tryin' to please Him is doin' it. It ain't love without."

"You are right, Tom. But now about yourself. How would you like to end your days in one of those homes for cripple lads, where you would be nursed and cared for, and where you would see the trees and flowers, and hear the birds sing? I could get you into one not far from my home if you liked, Tom."

The weary lad looked wistfully into the man's kindly face, and after a few moments' silence, answered: "Thank'ee, sir, I've heard tell of 'em afore, but I ain't anxious to die easy when He died hard. I might get taken up with them things a bit too much, and I'd rather be a lookin' at Him and a carryin' on this 'ere work till He comes to fetch me."

"Well, my lad, then I will see that you have proper food and all the paper you need while you live. I will settle it with one of the Bible-women. Now, lad, before I go I want you to pray aloud for me."

There was a bright light on the poor, pale, upturned face, as he said, in a tone of the deepest reverence: "Lord Jesus, I know your willin', and I'm much obliged to you for sendin' this gentleman here to cheer us in my work. Now, Lord Jesus, he's a bit troubled about not havin' for Thee in past days, will you help him to see to it that there's nothin' left undone in the comin' days; and please, Lord, make him go straight away and tell them other rich men of Thy love. Now, Lord Jesus, please bless this kind friend, all roads and always. I ask this for Thy name's sake. Amen," said the deep-toned voice.

Then the gentleman rose and said farewell. Before leaving the city he made every arrangement for the lad to be cared for, and then with a gladder heart he went back to his beautiful country home, and lived for Christ. As soon as he could he preached Jesus to the villagers, and told them of his restoration through the cripple boy and his text, and many were led to Christ.

News of the dying lad reached them from time to time through the Bible woman, but it was not till Winter had set in, and the snow had fallen and covered the earth with its crystal whiteness, that they heard that the dear lad had "gone to be with Jesus."

The same post brought a parcel, which contained Tom's much-prized and much-used Bible. What a precious relic was that marked Bible in that beautiful home! For when the cripple boy's friend lent it to his youngest son to read—the careful markings, the short simple prayers written by the cripple lad on the margin, and his dying wish on the fly-leaf, written about a week before his death, that "this Holy Book may be as great a friend to someone else as it has been to me"—made such a deep impression on the youth that he got converted, and gave himself to the Lord, and later on to mission work in foreign fields; and out in Central Africa he has shown that worn-out Bible to many a native Christian when telling them about cripple Tom and his text.

THE POOR MAN'S LAWYER

ARE YOU IN ANY LEGAL DIFFICULTY?

Do you need advice with regard to wills, legacies, trespasses, conveyancing, buying or selling houses and lands, payments and collections of debts, disputes over wages, and other payments, domestic difficulties, workmen's or workwomen's compensation and accidents; in fact, rights and wrongs generally? If so, write to "The Poor Man's Lawyer," care of The Salvation Army Headquarters, "The War Cry," 20 Albert Street, Toronto, Ont., and the best possible advice will be given you as to how to proceed.

Question: I sustained a bad fall in front of a neighbor's house some time ago because of the terrible condition of the sidewalk. No effort, apparently, had been made to clear off the ice and snow which had formed into lumps. My doctor's bill has run into a considerable sum, and the doctor now informs me that it is doubtful if I will recover properly. In view of the circumstances I feel justified in claiming damages, and yet have not sufficient money to employ a lawyer. Would you kindly advise me as to which is the most feasible plan to follow?—L. B.

Answer: You can, of course, recover damages if you can prove that your injury was sustained by reason of the fall which you had in front of the premises in question, as it is incumbent upon the owner of said premises to keep the sidewalk clear from ice and snow so that no person passing in front of said premises will be occasioned damage because of neglect along this line. Why not consult a local attorney on the matter and ask him if he will prosecute your claim on a contingent basis—that is, his fee will only be forthcoming in the event of recovery. You may find an attorney who, in view of your circumstances, will be willing to take your case on this basis.

Question: An operation was performed on my wife by a doctor who stated that such would cost one hundred dollars. He led me to expect that the operation would be successful, and I paid him twenty-five dollars on account. As a matter of fact the operation has not improved matters, and conditions are equally as bad as they were previous to it. I have held up payment, but am now faced with a lawyer's letter insisting upon the immediate discharge of this liability. Please advise me.

Answer: Must pay.

Question: In the case of an unmarried mother, when the man admits responsibility, and wants to marry, does her refusal preclude her allowance for child's keep?

Answer: No.

heart of the town and on the Main Street. Nevertheless, the light has been of an uphill nature, but the Corps is now making considerable progress. The little band turns out well to the Open-air Meetings and plays creditably. The young people take a prominent part. Ensign and Mrs. Kirbyson are leading our forces, and recently enrolled three new Corps Cadets.

SEAFORTH—The birth-place and battle-ground of many early day victories. A number of Staff Officers, and even clergymen in responsible positions, first saw the light of Salvation in this pretty little town. The Corps has fought its way through many hardships and has a beautiful Citadel, with Officers' Quarters attached. The Sergeant-Major holds the honor of a thirty-five years Long Service Badge; other Locals are also wearing the insignia for long service.

Lieutenant Stevens, although stationed alone for several months, is doing his utmost to keep "The Army Banner" flying at this place and deserves great credit for his faithful service under all circumstances.

STRATFORD—This Corps has a fine Young People's Work, an active and energetic Salvation Army Band and conducts on an average of fifteen Meetings a week. Adjutant and Mrs. White are in charge. Four Cadets in the present Training Session came out of Stratford.

WIARTON—This is our farthest north Corps in the Division, and has had its own struggles and difficulties. Ensign Waldorf has now been at this place for about two years, and during her command some very marked victories have been achieved. Captain Pettigrew is assisting the Ensign.

WINGHAM—Recently a number transferred to other parts of the battle-field and are strengthening the hands of the Comrades in the places where they have gone. We have some Soldiers in this place who have fought on faithfully, and deserve credit and thanks for their toil. The Officers are now having a change and in the future we hope to be able to give a more glowing account of our work.

presenting as the Chief Secretary rose to address the assembly, it being the occasion of his first attendance at a Queen City Y.P. Day. In a brief and pithy charge the Colonel enjoined upon his listeners the necessity of soul culture as the one thing needful in preparation for life's great adventure. It was evident that the Colonel was greatly stirred at the proportions of the Y.P. Work in Toronto, and that the sea of captured faces, all so eagerly intent upon appropriating some instruction called forth the Colonel's best efforts.

Just previous to the Commissioner's final address and appeal for decisions, Mrs. Victor Taylor soloed. The tender rendering and timely sentiment of the verses breathed a promise of strength and guidance to any who might choose to that night step on the path of highest standards.

Throughout the day the Commissioner had, in simple and severely practical language, presented to Toronto's youth the Pathway of Duty.

WANTED

Adjutant Weeks (Children's Section, Immigration Department), is very anxious to find Foster Homes for three bright English boys, ages 9, 10, and 11½ years.

The Adjutant would gladly give particulars. Write him, at 478 Jarvis Street, Toronto.

One could not but admit that a life lived in accordance with our Leader's outline would be idealistic—but the speaker endeavored to make his hearers experiment in the holy life, and prove it realistic as well. So, gathering up the threads of the day's teaching, the Commissioner brought his counselling to a close by a tempered appeal for unhesitating response to the Voice of God.

Scarcely had the Prayer Meeting commenced when the first girl came weeping to the front. For over an hour Lieut.-Colonels Adby and Morehen drew in the net. This hour was one of tremendous import to numbers of young people, for many a doubtful problem was unravelled, many a hindrance that had deterred from fuller service was severed, and though invisible, we should think the seraphims were kept busy with their tongues taking life coals from off the Altar to enflame these young penitents.

Here and there, in gallery and lower hall, could be seen abashed girls, conscience-wounded boys, and serious-minded young men and women—hesitating. But one by one they obeyed the Divine impulse, and found gracious relief at the Seat of Mercy. When the long chain of seekers fully ended one hundred and fifty-four names were counted.

He Loves

In Thee, O Lord, I put my trust, Mighty, and merciful, and just; Thy sacred word is passed; And I, who dare Thy word receive, Without committing sin shall live, Shall live to God at last.

I rest in Thine almighty power; The name of Jesus is a tower, That hides my life above; Thou canst, Thou wilt my helper be; My confidence is all in Thee, The faithful God of love.

COMING: The Life Story of Major Cabrit

DISPATCHES WHICH TELL OF SERVICE AND SALVATION THROUGHOUT CANADA EAST

A Drum-head Conversion

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. (Captain Dixon, Lieutenant Calvert).—We are into the WIN ONE Campaign with all our hearts, and praise God we can report victories already. We have had several backsliders return in the fold lately and during "War Cry" Week every one of these Comrades dropped of several copies (congratulations—Ed.). We were able to increase our "War Cry" circulation for that week by 70 per cent.

The Open-Airs are also proving helpful and, although the thermometer registered thirty-three below zero on a recent week-end, the Comrades were present and several listeners spoke of the blessing they received from the Meetings.

We have been having exceptionally good times at our Sunday Meetings, and even better times, during Bombardment Week, we had three Carriage Meetings which were well attended.

On a recent Saturday night a specially large audience attended our Open-Air Meeting, and although quite cold, God's Presence was felt to such an extent that we had one man kneel at the drum-head!

Pearl Brojden and Winnie Pitt, two young 'War Cry' Boomers of the Pictou Corps.

Victory After Struggle

RHODES AVE. (Lieutenant Ritchie).—Staff-Captain and Mrs. Thompson conducted last Sunday's Meetings at the Corps. Although the storm kept up all day the Comrades turned out splendidly. The afternoon service took the form of an old-fashioned Testimony Meeting. At night, after a struggle in the Prayer Meeting, Two souls surrendered.

New Converts Do Well

WHITNEY PIER (Adjutant and Mrs. O'Leary).—We launched our WIN ONE Campaign very successfully. On Sunday night it seemed as though there would not be room for the congregation, but we got them all seated, and conversion was very evident. The crowds remained until the close of nearly all the meetings, and during the first month over TWENTY came to the Pentecost-term and professed Salvation. Nearly all of these are now doing well.

Fifty-four Children at Mercy Seat

PETERBORO (Adjutant and Mrs. Smith).—THREE seekers for Salvation and Sanctification were the fruit of the night witnessed in the final Meeting on Sunday, February 24th.

During the evening an old Army friend, Joseph, Grandfather of V. P. S. M. O'Leary, of the Toronto Corps, was called to rest in Oshawa. God took him home during the hours of sleep. His life had been spent quietly serving God, and these left to none, him that could not be moved, he was a true soldier in God's army, and he will meet him again.

God has also called to his reward Sergeant Clara Payne, after a long period of suffering, through which she was always happy in her submission to the will of God. Adjutant Smith conducted the Funeral Service on Monday afternoon, February 11th.

Finally, we can report further triumphs in the WIN ONE Campaign. FIFTY-FOUR children gave their hearts to God on Testimony Sunday. In the Salvation Meeting TWO sinners sought forgiveness.

Smoking Habit Cured

PERTH (Captain Lyon, Lieut. Allen).—On Sunday, February 10th, we had the joy of seeing a backslider for eight years return to God. He told the Captain that instead of smoking his pipe the next day he knelt and asked God to help him to give it up, and for the first time for years he went to work without it.

The "War Cry" are selling wonderfully well, not one left, and many strangers are receiving it. Our Home League is also very busy making garments for needy children.

Winning Them One by One

MONTREAL VII. (Ensign Douglas, Lieutenant Ward).—On February 23rd, our Meetings were led by our own Officers and TWO souls sought God.

February 19th, God's presence was very near in all the Meetings.

Sunday service was a great success and we had the joy of seeing TEN Juniors join the Staff-Captain and Adjutant and Mrs. Harvard. The Staff-Captain delivered a very powerful address and TWO more seekers claimed forgiveness. We have now four Companies, and also an Adult Bible Class.

Young People Aggressive

CHATHAM, N.B. (Lieutenant Stevens and Sergeant).—We have started Cottage Meetings, which are a means of inspiration to us all. Our Home League is progressing well, and we also have a live brigade of young people, who are determined to win aggressive Soldiers. We have now four Companies, and also an Adult Bible Class.

Backsliders Return

TORONTO I. (Adjutant and Mrs. John).—In Sunday, January 27th, we had with us Major Taylor, who led on the Salvation Meeting at night. During the service Sister Carey was enrolled as a Soldier. The Major's address was wonderfully blessed by God, and a THIRTEEN backsliders at the Mercy Seat.

On Sunday, February 24th, Brigadier Subbie and Major A. Yamara led the Salvation Meeting. The Lord made the Major's message a blessing and TWO sinners came to the Mercy Seat.

Adjutant and Mrs. Cooper were with us on Sunday, February 16th. A number of Ladies Officers received their commissions during the afternoon service. The Salvation Meeting was a very successful one, and we had the joy of seeing a backslider return.

The Editor and Mrs. Taylor at Hamilton

HAMILTON I. (Ensign and Mrs. Curry).—Crowds gathered at the Hall on Saturday night to welcome Major and Mrs. Taylor, whose visit has been long anticipated. At the onset both the Major and Mrs. Taylor realized that they were amongst warm-hearted and zealous people. There was much renewing of acquaintance from the Old Country. A very sincere greeting was extended by the drummer, who for years amongst the Welsh Hills had served as Corps Correspondent under the Major. The keynote of comradeship was struck on Saturday night and the was prevalent throughout the visit.

On Sunday morning the Bandmen, at nine o'clock, previous to going to the open-air, visited the City Hospital, where our old drummer, Frederick A. May, is a patient. There they encouraged him to the joy of all patients. The following Meeting was a season of much blessing.

The afternoon was devoted to a Musical Festival by the Band and Singers, the Major conducting the Band in several items. A much appreciated item was a solo by Mrs. Major Taylor, who also spoke and sang very effectively in the other Meetings. The Singers rendered, in a happy manner, two selections in the Festival and the solo by Secretary Cruse was an inspiration.

By an unanimous vote, the Major's address went home, and in a red-hot Prayer Meeting we had the joy of seeing SEVEN seekers.

Amongst the number a husband and wife. There were THIRTEEN seekers during the week-end Meetings, making a total of TEN for the week. A rousing program is outlined for Outpost Week.

Correspondent Matthews.

Baby Corps Reports Victories

HAMILTON V. (Ensign Moore, Captain Russell).—At our first Decision Sunday service, FIVE knelt at the Cross. The evening Meeting was a time of blessing, and we rejoiced over TWO sinners claiming forgiveness.

Program in School House

HALIFAX (Captain Hawkins).—During the last six weeks we have added eight Soldiers to the Roll; six by enrollment and two by transfer, and all are faithful soldiers. In that time also, we have had FOUR seekers; two for Salvation and two for re-consecration. Two weeks ago a sleigh-load of Halifac Soldiers journeyed to Conal School-house and gave a program of social and instrumental music to a good crowd. We congratulate the Treasurer, who was responsible for the arranging of the program.

Eighty-Four-Year-Old 'Cry'

Boomer

LONDON I. (Adjutant and Mrs. Leech).—A recent Meeting, convened by Adjutant Leech of London I., and presided over by Adjutant Spooner, was made the occasion of paying tribute to our veteran Comrade. Publication Sergeant-Major Ward, who has been associated with The Salvation Army since its inception in London, over forty years ago, is still in harness and ranks amongst the "War Cry" boomers of the Canada East Territory.

On behalf of Headquarters, two bound volumes of the "Life of the Founder" were presented by Adjutant Spooner. Fitting words of appreciation were spoken by Adjutant Leech, and Mrs. Ward very aptly replied.

The congregation endorsed these appreciative expressions, and wished Mrs. Ward Godspeed in her health to push the things of God by the aid of the "White Winged Messenger."

Home League Flourishing

ST. JOHN I. (Captain and Mrs. Williams).—Our Home League is becoming quite a concern, under the leadership of Mrs. Captain Williams. We are growing both in numbers and spiritual matters. We are hoping to have a Sale in the near future. The object of which is to help furnish the Quarters.

On January 21st, we had the pleasure of a visit from Mrs. Major Burrows, who gave a very helpful talk on a Bible subject.

Half-Night of Prayer

ST. JOHN II. (Captains Hiseot and Adeock).—Following the four-day Campaign at St. John I., Ensign Oshorn came to us for twelve days. A wonderful time followed. The Meetings were well attended and THIRTEEN sought Salvation, and FORTY-ONE Holiness. The last Meeting of the Campaign did not finish until 1.30 in the morning. FIVE seekers for Salvation and one for Holiness were the visible results of that half-night of prayer.

Aggression and Victory

COLLINGWOOD (Captain and Mrs. Jolly).—Decision Sunday was a time of great inspiration to the Company Guards. After the lesson, which was outlined by the aid of the blackboard, TEN young people gave their hearts to God, two of the young men coming out to the Open-Air at night. The Red and Blue contest is proving exciting, and our attendance has been greatly increased.

Salvation Meetings have been started with the young people. The "Red and Blue" contest is proving exciting, and our attendance has been greatly increased.

Salvation Meetings have been started with the young people. The "Red and Blue" contest is proving exciting, and our attendance has been greatly increased.

Rejoicing Over Seven Seekers

GRAVENHURST (Lieutenant Barker and Williams).—We are pleased to report that the Soldiers of Gravenhurst Corps are on fire for God and man, each one determined to win their one. Already in our Meetings, we have had the joy of seeing SEVEN seekers claiming forgiveness.

Annual Home League

"Get-together"

Parliament Street (Captain Leitch, Lieut. Fisher).—On Tuesday and Monday, 22nd, the Home League held their annual "supper" and gathering. Mrs. Beggs and Mrs. Stait-Captain and Mrs. Cumeron were present. Sister Bishop has given up the Secretaryship on account of sickness and Sister Hynes, who has been assistant Secretary, has taken up the larger responsibility.

Mrs. Brigadier Moore spoke on the faithful service of Sister Bishop who, for forty-two years, has been a Local Officer. One of her first positions was that of "War Cry" Sergeant in an English Corps. Sister Hynes, the new Secretary, was called upon to speak. So was Treasurer Higby and Captain Gratrix. The Home League is a great asset to the Corps.

SONG OF THE WEEK

Tunes—"Rejoice of the beat," 110 "We shall win," 113. Song Book 521.

Who'll fight for the Lord everywhere, Till we march by the river of light, Where the Lamb leads His hosts free from care.

All robed in their garments of white?

Everywhere. Who'll fight for the Lord everywhere?

Oh, think of the friends, everywhere, Who on man's ruined nature have trod,

Of the curses that breathe on the air,

From souls wandering far from their God.

I'll fight for the Lord everywhere, For the terrible need I can see,

Many, dying in sin everywhere, My Jesus alone can set free

DIED IN TRIUMPH

SISTER Mrs. Sutton answered the call to Higher Service on December 23rd, from the Hospital, after many weeks' suffering. During that time she realized how precious was the Saviour she had served so long.

She was a faithful Soldier for eleven and a half years, holding positions of Young People's Worker and Southerner.

The Memorial Service was a heart-searching time; several re-consecrated themselves and a sister of our promoted Comrade sought the Saviour.

Our sympathy is extended to Brother Sutton and his little girl; to the bereaved parents, Brother and Sister Allen, and to our warrior Comrade's brothers and sisters.

Have you ever made a real attempt to bring a wanderer to the Saviour?

WIN ONE SOLO

By ALICE M. LEADER, Peterboro, Ontario

Tune—"The Bells of St. Mary's."

The story of Jesus, how dear it has grown,

Since first to our hearts thro' His grace 'twas made known.

And now since we've proved all His promises true,

We long to win others to serve Jesus too.

Chorus

The story of Jesus, oh hasten to tell it.

That story so precious to you and to me.

That all who are sin-bound may hear of the Saviour

Who bled and died, was crucified to set them free.

The story of Jesus, how oft it is told, And yet, 'tis so sweet, it will never grow old.

We love to repeat it again and again, And tell of the Blood that can cleanse every stain.

The story of Jesus, its comfort will last.

When pleasures and joys of this world are all past,

And when we are safe on Eternity's shore,

The praises of Jesus, we'll sing evermore.

How far can God Save a Man?

"Enoch walked with God."—Gen. 5: 24. "Noah walked with God."—Gen. 6: 9.
Can two walk together, except they be agreed?"—Amos 3: 3.

HOW far can God save a man? If it were possible to reach a climax in spiritual experience—a state of grace so high that one could not mount any higher—a position from which no advance could be made—that admitted of no more growth or development—the writer would be tempted to believe that the experience of Noah and Enoch, as briefly described in the above passages, must have been one that precluded further progress. On the contrary, we know that Holiness is a condition of soul which admits of infinite growth or expansion. The injunction that we are to "grow in grace" is always correct advice for the Christian. Each successive practical manifestation of God's wonderful grace only increases our capacity to receive more, and intensifies our spiritual vision, so that we can see the possibility and the duty of obtaining more.

The experience of Enoch and Noah was indeed a lofty one, and we can well understand many of God's people wishing that they could attain to such a height. The word "walked" as it occurs in the above passages not only implies the ordinary method of proceeding from one place to another, but includes all the general conduct and activities of life. This is also the interpretation of the Divine utterance as quoted in 2 Corinthians 6:16, "God hath said, I will dwell in them and walk in them." Enoch and Noah, in short, lived with God. They were always in His presence and never out of it.

The expression, "Walked with God," implies a closer intimacy, a greater love and friendship than could exist in connection with any mere human relationship. There was no limit to God's knowledge of Enoch and Noah—He knew all about them. His eye could penetrate beneath the surface of their characters right to their innermost being; He knew them better than they knew themselves. His estimate of their character was not based upon any mere superficial glance. God was not deceived in them, and certainly they were not deceived in God—they found Him all that He represented Himself to be. There were not too many people about like Enoch and Noah at the times in which they lived. Had such an experience been more general it is probable that the sacred historian would scarcely have considered it worth while to single out these two cases. The record has, however, been made for our personal encouragement.

These two men lived a long while ago—while the world was, comparatively speaking, in its infancy. Certainly God had not made so many revelations of Himself to humanity as He has since. They lived hundreds of years before Christ's advent—before Calvary and Pentecost. The Holy Spirit had been in the world from the creation, but Pentecost marked the beginning of a new era—a dispensation in which the presence of the Holy Spirit in the world has been more manifest than it was before. Hence we may conclude that the world was not nearly so spiritually enlightened then as it is now. Moreover, Enoch and Noah did not find much to help them in their immediate surroundings—in fact, the people amid whom Noah lived were so wicked that God felt it necessary to destroy them in the deluge.

In 1883 The Army's Founder wrote, concerning Enoch's experience: "Has it ever occurred to you that Enoch, a man who walked with God for 300 years, was not, as you may have fancied, a prophet, living away from the rest of his race, but a married man, mingling all the time with affairs of every-day life like other people, and surrounded like yourself with the ungodly world? Ask God to show you . . . how to climb above your circumstances and walk with Him even as Enoch did."

While this "walking with God" is an experience that admits of infinite growth and expansion, yet it would not be incorrect to say that it is the greatest privilege that God can bestow upon a human being. What greater honor can there be?

How can two walk together, except they be agreed? The intimacy and enjoyment of a companionship can only be proportionate to the similarity of purposes and tastes. It is so with human companionships. How nice it is to come in contact with a kindred spirit—one who thinks as we do, and has the same aims and purposes as ourselves—especially on matters that we feel to be of vital importance.

From the delight we experience in a true, beautiful companionship we can gain an idea of the pleasure which God must have felt in His relationship with Enoch and Noah. He took delight in them and they in Him. Wonderful and lofty as such an experience is, yet the whole of God's revelations to mankind, including the great scheme of Redemption, have been planned and carried out with the object of bringing us into just that very relationship with Himself. God wants to live, move and dwell with us and in us all. He wants to be our Companion—our unerring Guide—right through life. He is ever working with us to that end.

Most of us have experienced disappointment through the failure of human friendships. The Psalmist wailed in his anguish, "Mine own familiar friend, in whom I trusted, which did eat of my bread, hath lifted up his heel against me" (Psalm 41:9). Seeing that we are made "in the image of God," He is like us in this respect; that He suffers disappointment when His friends fail Him.

Enoch's walk with God was resolutely maintained until His final translation to that land where temptation comes not. The particular traits of character which made Enoch fit for association with God were the results of the Holy Spirit's work in His soul. To get such a work accomplished Enoch had to hand himself over unreservedly to God, and, in return, God gave Himself to Enoch—as much of Himself as Enoch could contain. The result was a mutual delight to both.

Holiness means not only deliverance from the thralldom of inbred sin; not only the daily fulfilment of the Divine will; not only a complete consecration to God, but, in addition to all these, the privilege of walking with God in the closest possible friendship—fellowship with Jehovah, our Maker. It means that He is always delighted with His work in us, and we are always delighted with it and with Him likewise. Are you enjoying such an experience, comrade?
